Robin Jay: BIO

Robin Jay is a professional keynote speaker, award-winning author and corporate trainer. Robin is not just the "Queen of the Business Lunch," but is a business relationship expert who shares the nuts-and-bolts of building profitable business relationships. Her book, the award-winning "The Art of the Business Lunch ~ Building Relationships Between 12 and 2" (Career Press, 2006) has been sold in ten languages worldwide (www.RobinJay.com).

Robin Jay is a living example of the Laws of the Universe at work. As a teen, she learned the truths about success, leadership, management, focused attention, being self-motivated and the power of a positive mental attitude. After more than 18 years as an Advertising Account Manager, Robin took a leap of faith and began her writing and speaking career. Her personable, friendly style was quickly embraced by audiences across the country. Her natural ability to communicate effectively quickly put her in demand as a keynote speaker and coach.

Whether speaking at association functions, corporate meetings and conventions, or coaching one-on-one, Robin knows how to help others achieve their goals and dreams. She saw her first book, "The Art of the Business Lunch" as a best seller and it quickly became just that. This book on business relationships is now sold in TEN languages worldwide.

Robin has the proven ability to communicate the Laws of the Universe in language that everyone can understand; she delivers messages that motivate and inspire her audiences in accordance with those laws. She transforms her audiences through a journey of increased self-actualization to achieve greater success, both personally and professionally.
